“Teacher, which is the greatest commandment in the Law?” Jesus replied, “Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.’ This is the first and greatest commandment. And the second is like it: ‘Love your neighbor as yourself.’ All the Law and the Prophets hang on these two commandments.”

Matthew 22:36-40

First off, we want to thank each and every one of you for your help in making our transition so smooth! We have been truly blessed with an amazing support team. Your prayers are greatly appreciated and we can see them making a difference!

We have spent the last couple months scrambling to prepare all the necessary systems to branch out as our own organization, while still trying to serve as many people as possible. It has definitely been a season that we are glad to be done with, but also one where God has shown us so much about running this ministry.

Although we had many successes over the last couple months, there were plenty of times where we fell short as well. As we take time to reflect on our failures, God has really been bringing our hearts back to where He wants them.

George has some serious workaholic tendencies, which means when things need to get done, he gets them done. However, it also means that much more effort and thought is put into the end result of getting someone’s car fixed instead of getting to know our clients and their story.

Christ calls us to do so much more than simply fixing vehicles for people in need. We are called to build relationships, listen well, build relationships, and most importantly share the Gospel with these people. The only way to do this well is to take the time to have conversation, listen, and build relationships with our clients. It is easy to get frustrated with this process because it takes much longer than simply fixing vehicles.

God has really been showing us that taking the time to get to know people and be there in many other ways for people is exactly what we need to be doing.

He has also been showing us that praying for our clients is absolutely essential and arguably the single most important thing that we can be doing for our clients. Not only does this soften our hearts toward difficult clients, but it also unleashes the power of the Holy Spirit on their lives!

Once again, all this takes more time away from vehicle repairs, but we have been learning that truly serving our clients goes far beyond just fixing their vehicle. It is not about how many vehicles we fix, but the relationships we are building along the way.

Please join us in praying, not only for our clients, but also for our hearts as we serve them.
